The Far Away Rhinoceros.

On a hot day in Africa, Jack the rhinoceros was in his cool den. There was some deer that were playing in the long grass. Jack was thinking up a sneaky plan to catch the deer. He thought he could creep through the jungle quietly and he did...

he only got one of the deer but he still wished he had got the one that killed his mother and father secretly he thought.

The next day he got up and had his breakfast then set off for the river. When he got there he went to his favourite rock and unpacked and started to fish. He saw something big coming towards him. But it wasn't a big fish, it was a Whale!! The whale made a bit wave and washed poor Jack into the cold sea.

A few years later he washed up on a beach in Africa. He couldn't up. A big wave took him to the great Australian coast. He was up again. A nice ranger called his company. They bought a helicopter. It took him back to Africa.
